CITY AND VICINITY.

Officer Meeuwse caught an owl the other evening in the entry way of the Brouwer Furniture store on River street. It is now the mascot of police headquarters.

While switching cars at Allegan Thursday, Harry VanGilden, a Lake Shore brakeman was walking alongside his train when he was caught between two box cars, squeezed and rolled until the bone in his right arm was terribly splintered. His spine was also injured. His recovery is doubtful.

The Holland merchants are to be represented in an advertisement social to be held this evening in the Woodman hall. The Royal Neighbors of America are to be dressed up to represent the different lines of goods carried by various merchants of the city. The articles they wear or represent are to be sold at auction. A program and other features will also contribute to the entertainment.

After October first, Henry Vander Ploeg will be located in the Wise block with one of the finest book stores in this part of the state. Mr. Vander Ploeg's success in this line of work has been marked and the growth of his business during the five years that he has conducted it, rapid. The date of the opening has not yet been announced, but it will occur sometime about the middle of October.

Dr. Fred Brower lanced a swelling on the shoulder of a horse owned by John Klompars of Laketown last week and a silver dime rolled out of the wound. It is believed that the coin was placed there eight or nine years ago by a "quack" veterinary, who probably believed that the irritation caused by the coin would prove beneficial. So it did to the owner of the animal who now places the dime among the most prized of his souvenirs.

Judge Padgham handed down his decision in a long fought divorce case between Reka Kuite and Cornelius Kuite, granting her a divorce and custody of the children. The suit was filed four years ago, Oct. 11, 1904 and the charge was cruelty. At that time Mrs. Kuite went to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Van den Bos at the corner of 16th and Maple streets. She has made her home at this place ever since.

Fire, of unknown origin but believed from the circumstances to have been the work of an incendiary destroyed the little ferry and pleasure boat Holiday early Saturday morning. The craft is the property of the Macatawa Park Association and is the third to burn under suspicious circumstances. The Post Boy and the Pinta are the other boats which were formerly destroyed. As in the other cases no trace of the perpetrators can be discovered. The Association has offered $500 to the person securing the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

John Plasman, son of Fred Plasman, who lives near Montello Park, expects to leave this week to take up a course in the University of Chicago. Mr. Plasman is a graduate of Hope's Preparatory and College departments. While a member of the student body Mr. Plasman distinguished himself by his active participation in literary work of all kinds and his splendid musical ability. He was twice the representative orator of his class in the annual college contests and upon graduation rendered a vocal solo that caused considerable favorable comment among local lovers of music. Mr. Plasman will enter a comparatively new line of college work. He intends fitting himself for the United States Consular service and is taking advantage of the most excellent opportunities in this line that are offered at Chicago. In order to do this he has turned down several flattering business offers, among them a position with a company in Chicago manufacturing pressed brick machinery. Mr. Plasman's many friends here wish him the best of good luck as he is entering his three year course of study.

The Day of the Three-Master --With a Difference.

The following article on a burial at sea is from the pen of Anthony VerHulst, and he declares that it is a cross-my-heart true incident that he and James De Kraker witnessed during their sea voyage from the Netherlands. The fathers and mothers of many of the present day citizens of this city can recall similar incidents of burials at sea during those weary days when material and spiritual privation drove them to their new home in the West. The two young travelers have settled down to the American way of doing things again, Mr. DeKraker as a student at the Western Theological seminary and Mr. Ver Hulst as a member of the Sophomore class at Hope college.—Editor.

Back in God's country, and of course we are glad to be back. After all, there's no place like Uncle Sam's big farm, and no flag like the Star Spangled Banner. None can appreciate how it feels to see Old Glory in some foreign city until he sees it on the flag staff of some building with a brass plate "American Consulate" on the door. Then first you realize how far it is to the Statue of Liberty and "Home, Sweet Home."

Of course the sea trip is nothing compared to what it was in the days of the old "three master," but when, as we experienced it, the trip lasts eleven days, with four days of storm so that the dishes were placed in racks and even the waiters paid tribute to the Atlantic, and then after a few days of tantalizingly fine weather, you are overtaken by a three days fog, you begin to lose interest in the "ever changing billows," and the dirty skyscrapers of New York are a welcome sight.

One of the problems which we were to study was the immigrant question. For this and minor reasons we took a Russian steamer, the Russia of St. Petersburg. Taking in consideration that there were nearly 2,000 steerage passengers as contrasted with 100 in the second and first class, none can deny that we had ample material for study. Among these immigrants one can find every type of humanity, from Tolstoy's double to the embruted peasant, hideous with pox and disfigured by the knout.

Between our periods of investigation, however, we managed to find time for amusement. Not the least of these was our use of the promenade deck on the few moonlight nights. Our "bunch" consisted of a St. Louis family, an instructor in a military school in Texas, a Russian refugee, a German trained nurse, a Chicago bartender, and the two "Brothers X," as we were called, for we remained an unsolvable mystery to our companions.

One incident on one of these nights we shall never forget. The fog was closing round us, the moon showing only as a yellow blur high in the heavens. Suddenly one of the ladies cried, "Let's hurry, they're having a dance in the steerage." We all scurried to the rail and found the immigrants congregated in a great, silent group on the deck. Suddenly out of the hospital door advanced an officer in white followed by four sailors carrying a small canvas wrapped bundle. As they neared the rail the engines stopped, all was still for a moment with that silence which holds men in the presence of Death. The brawny sailors heaved together, a splash, and the sea swallowed the dead. Still now no one moved, but suddenly the rumbling voice of our Chicago German broke the stillness, "It aint enuff that a man dies, they got to throw him overboard and drown him yet too." The spell was broken, women shrieked with laughter in which there was no mirth, and strange men with faces white as marble laughed aloud. Then the engines throbbed again and the great ship plunged forward on its westward course. On such steamers where one sees men as they are, there is a world of pathos as well as wealth of humor which enriches one's experience, but a burial at sea is something which the most blasé man of the world cannot witness uninfluenced.

Rev. Schulke will preach in the German Lutheran church next Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

On Thursday evening of next week the lights in the stores will be kept burning until about 9:30. This is to make the downtown streets lighter on the night of the big day at the fair.

Attorney A. A. Ellis of Grand Rapids delivered an address at the meeting of the Holland City Democratic club last evening in H. O. H. hall, on River street.

The Rev. J. H. Groen of Grand Rapids has declined a call extended to him by the Sixteenth street Christian Reformed church of this city some time ago. The organization is considering other pastors.

Members of the First M. E. church are rejoicing in the fact that Rev. N. F. Jenkins who has served the local church as pastor for the past two years has been returned to them. Mr. Jenkins has ever labored for the best interests of the church.

Prof. J. B. Nykerk, arrived in the city last night after spending the summer at Oxford University, England. He has resumed his work as English professor at Hope college. This is the second course of study Mr. Nykerk has taken at the English university.

Fred Kleyn, who is the Holland Shoeman, first last and all the time, has as tasteful a display of the latest styles in his window as can be found anywhere. In fact Fred is known for his carrying an up-to-date line of goods. The new line of fall and winter stock that he carries now can bear inspection from the most critical customer.

The Rev. Dr. Bavink the Amsterdam theologian who is touring the country will deliver a lecture in Carnegie hall to the public on Wednesday, Sept 30 in the Holland language. At 2 and 6 o'clock he will deliver private lectures to the college students in Winant's chapel.

Entry lists for all exhibits at the Holland Fair are now open and entries are being taken in all classes in the Holland City News office. A special assistant has been appointed and entries can be made at the News office up to Tuesday morning. Thursday until three o'clock entries will be taken at the grounds.

Aldermen Stephan and Van Tongeren are in favor of changing the present ordinance in regard to electric signs, which allows only a six foot sign, to allow more light and bigger signs. The council at the last meeting ordered the ordinance committee to draw up a suitable ordinance covering the present situation.

Robert Oliver, chief engineer of the City of Holland, was drowned by falling from a row boat in which he and two companions were fishing about noon yesterday. The party composed of George Ford, George Munger and Robert Oliver had been fishing on the north side of the lake near the R. A. Marsh ice house. About 11:30 o'clock they started to leave. Oliver lost his balance while pulling up the anchor and fell into the water, sinking immediately. His body was found about two hours later by Wm McCloskey, steward of the steamer. The drowned man leaves a wife and little son in Benton Harbor. His body was sent to Detroit yesterday for burial.

A trio of ministers was named by the consistory of the First Reformed church at Muskegon. Those of the trio are, Rev. Douwe Drukker, of this city; Rev. S. Volbeda, Grand Rapids; and Rev. B. H. Einink, of Roseland, Ill.

John Drij and George VanDuren left Wednesday for Ann Arbor. The former intends to enter the engineering department of the University and the latter will enter the literary department to specialize in mathematics. John Slagh, who graduated from Hope college two years ago, will take up a course leading to a degree of Bachelor of Arts, which he will complete next June. Raymond Visscher and Mr. Slagh will leave for Ann Arbor the latter part of the week.

The Wisconsin Memorial Academy at Cedar Grove, Wis., is this year conducted by a force of teachers, all of whom are graduates of Hope College: Prof. Paul E. Hinkamp, Principal, Ancient Languages and History; Prof. Herman Renskers, Science; Prof. Miss Minnie DeFeyer, Mathematics and German; Prof. Miss Martha De Jong, English and Pedagogy.

At a session of the board of public works held Wednesday evening, estimates for sewers on VanRaalte avenue from Sixteenth street to Nineteenth and on West Fifteenth street between Maple and Harrison were passed as O. K. The Van Raalte avenue sewer is to cost $805.50 and the Fifteenth street sewer, $1,683.55. The Central avenue sewer proposition will be held up temporarily pending a new districting of the territory which will drain into the Central avenue sewer which will be of the trunk variety.

Mass meetings to be held in this city every week, from the first of October, until election day have been arranged by the Republican leaders. Holland will be treated to some of the best speakers for the campaign in the state. Such names as Senator William Alden Smith, Congressman Hamilton, Congressman Townsend and Congressman Dikema have been placed on the list of those who will visit Holland. In addition to these men a member of the National committee will make a speech in the city if Congressman Dikema's present plans are carried out.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sprick of Grand Haven pleasantly celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home on Fulton street in that city on Tuesday evening. The affair was a simple gathering, an unpretentious celebration in honor of the couple whose life has been simple and unassuming, a couple who have borne their joys and sorrows quietly. During their long residence in Grand Haven they have made hosts of friends who join with the members of the family in congratulations and wishes for a long life yet to come. Mr. and Mrs. Sprick are well known in Holland.

The warm, dry weather of the past few weeks, with its clouds of dust and blinding smoke from the northern forest fires, has been most unpleasant. But for the peach crop the dry weather has been much better than the usual warm rains which so often cause peaches to rot and go down in shipment. The fruit is of much better quality than in wet seasons, but the ripening of the crop has been hastened, so that the harvest will soon be over. Prices in Chicago have been somewhat better the past week, good yellow stock bringing from $1.25 to $1.75 per bushel. The peach harvest is practically over.

Ben Van Raalte Jr., superintendent of the speed committee of the Holland Fair has evolved a plan that may in the course of human events revolutionize all rules of the turf. The scheme is simply this. Fast mules are to be hitched to regulation racing bike-sulkies and driven at top speed around the racing circle. The mule that first gets around and snoves its nose under the wire in front of the judges' stand is to be declared the fastest mule by the judges. Its owner is to be given a purse. In short, Ben Van Raalte's scheme is to pull off a mule race. This is something new and if you have a mule, kicking around your barn, or you neighbor has a mule, or if someone you don't know has a mule, bring it or send it or have it sent to Ben Van Raalte of the speed committee, who will enter it in Holland's first, great and only mule race.

New Holland

M. P. Stegenga one of the pioneers in this vicinity and who is 76 years old can be seen swinging his cradle in his buckwheat field as though he was only 25 years old.

A new steel bridge will replace the old wooden structure at Waverly, which has been closed to travel for over a week. Work has been started and it is reported that it will be eight or ten weeks before the bridge is ready for use. This is a hard proposition for farmers hauling beets as they will have to take the old bee line which is very sandy or go by way of Scholten's bridge.

Zeeland

Wendell, Dorothy and Paul Adams after a month's pleasant visit at their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Adams, have returned to their home in Troy, N. Y.

This intensely dry and warm weather has hastened the maturity of all fruits and vegetables hereabouts. The present week will end the peach season with the exception of one or two late varieties. The leaves are dropping from the trees nearly as rapidly as if there had been an early frost.

The sad case of the young girl, Mildred Kooyers the past week, who suffered so intensely from swallowing a sand burr brings to the mind of the writer and others who have occasion to visit Holland how they have been annoyed to find their clothing filled with the detestable things. Why cannot the City fathers see that the sand burr is exterminated and prevented from spreading, the same as Canada thistles and other nuisances of that nature? The farmer has to be very careful at this season of the year lest he may bring enough of them home in his clothes to stock and infest his farm. Let their be a war against them both in the city and in the country.

Life's Journey.

Is Burdensome to Many in Holland.

Life's journey is a heavy burden. With a constantly aching back, With urinary disorders, diabetes, With any kidney ill.

Doan's Kidney Pills relieve and cure.

Here is Holland proof that this is so.

William Van Dort, 95 W. Tenth street, Holland, Mich., says: "I do not hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from kidney trouble and backache for over ten years and I endured much suffering and misery from this complaint. The secretions from my kidneys were irregular in action, passages being attended with a scalding sensation and they also contained sediment. My back was so weak and lame that I could hardly stoop or lift anything and if I caught cold, it always settled in my kidneys, causing me to suffer acutely. I doctored a great deal but never succeeded in finding relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Doesburg's Drug store. I felt their beneficial effects after a short use and I continued taking them until I was positively cured. I use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally when feeling tired or run down and the results are always most satisfactory.

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

The Girl With the Auburn Hair

Is on the outside package of every bottle of Parisian Sage. Should you forget the name simply ask for the package with "the girl with the Auburn hair" upon it.

And what a wonderful sale Parisian Sage has made for itself in America in a little over a year.

And what a multitude of people have been cured of falling hair, dandruff and itching scalp by its use.

And how the American women praise Parisian Sage for its peculiar ability to turn harsh, faded, lusterless hair into fresh, beautiful, silky and lustrous hair in a few days.

Parisian Sage today is the favorite hair dressing and tonic of discriminating Americans, not because of sensational methods of advertising, but because it is the only hair restorer that will do just as it is advertised to do.

It kills the dandruff germ and cures dandruff in two weeks. If it doesn't the Walsh Drug Co., the agent in Holland, will give you your money back.

"I had been troubled with dandruff for five years, but since using Parisian Sage I have not been bothered with it. I only used one-half bottle when I noticed the dandruff disappearing. I consider it the best hair tonic I ever used.—Mrs. C. B. Morton, 450 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 10, 1908.

If you haven't tried Parisian Sage get a bottle today. It is a delightful dressing. The price is only 50 cents a large bottle at Walsh Drug Co.'s or direct, all charges prepaid, by the American makers, Girouard Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Scott Lugers Lumber Co. has just received several carloads of extra fine barn shingles which they are selling at a low price 26ct

Impure blood runs you down—makes you an easy victim for organic disease, Burdock Blood Purifiers purify the blood—cures the cause—builds you up.

This Season's Lecture Course.

Before he left for England last spring Prof. J. B. Nykerk had completed most of the arrangements for this season's lecture course. More work and thought goes into the managing of a high class lecture course like Hope College has than appears on the face of it. Prof. Nykerk last year was in constant communication with the best lyceum bureaus in the country and as a result he has arranged for seven entertainments that are without dispute first class in every particular.

Prof. G. W. Harrington, of Oberlin College will be one of the drawing cards of the course. He is a famous reader of Browning and the English authors, and was a visitor at Prof. Nykerk's English classes last winter, when he read some choice selections from Browning.

And then there will be Leland Powers. He requires no introducing since he appeared in the Hope College course more than once. He is a finished artist in elocution, having studied under high class teachers, since he appeared here.

Dr. Charles H. Tyndall, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will give a scientific lecture. Tyndall is under the management of the Sole Chautauqua of Washington, D. C., and comes most highly recommended. His two best known lectures are "Wireless Telegraphy" and "Radium and its Mysteries."

One of the musicals of the course will be the Victor's Venetian Band of which S. Calathy Victor is conductor. The band is one of the best known in the country, ordinarily consisting of some 50 players. During the winter hours 20 of the best players will constitute the band.

Ole Read, the humorist story teller, the man who understands the art of making people laugh, will put in a few ticklers when he appears here. As his photographs indicate, Mr. Read has a reputation for never combing his hair and this gives him all the more the appearance of a humorist of the Mark Twain type.

Everybody has heard of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, the famous juvenile judge of Denver. He will tell the "Misfortunes of Mickey," which has made more people laugh and weep with the humor and infinite pathos of juvenile crime than any lecture of its kind.

Besides these there will be a musical that has not been decided on.

Mr. A. J. Van Houten, business manager of the course makes the announcement that the course tickets will be $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 as usual. This is what a well known citizen of Grand Rapids said about the lecture course of last year:

"Hope College is presenting the best lecture course for the money in Western Michigan. The personnel of the course was excellent and drew a large Grand Rapids attendance. Why not have a course of such high character in Grand Rapids."

But One Woman Prisoner.

The board of jail examiners has just completed its semi-annual inspection of the Ottawa county jail at Grand Haven and Attorney Arthur VanDuren of this city, a member of the board has compiled the following interesting statistics:

For the past six months there have been confined in the county lock-up 88 male and but one female prisoner. This lone woman was sent up from Holland on a disorderly charge. There has been one case of sickness in the half year.

Here are the offenses for which arrests were made and convictions secured and the number serving time for such. Grand larceny, eight; vagrancy, four; drunks, 27; drunks second offense, two; vags, second offense, one; arson, one; assault with intent to kill, one; jumping board bills, three; non-support, one; disorderly, seven; obtaining money under false pretenses, one; violation of the school law, one; chicken stealing, two; violation of the liquor law, one; assault and battery, four; entering a freight car, two; insane, three; defaulting livermen, one; forgery, one; desertion, one; using indecent language, three; indecent exposure, one; breaking in box car, three; hold-up, one and looting boats, four.

At the present time there are but five guests in Sheriff's Woodbury's hotel; three of them are serving sentences and two are awaiting trial. Before departing the board took occasion to reprimand the sheriff for laxity in allowing prisoners possession of a knife. This was occasioned by the recent stabbing affair in which one Frank Reed seriously and almost fatally slashed Johnny Vos of this city. The boys were fellow prisoners. It is reported that Vos is on the mend.

Custodians Must Be There.

Lansing, Sept. 19.—The meeting of the state board of canvassers Thursday afternoon called to act upon the petitions of Atty-Gen. Bradley and Gov. Warner who seek a recount of the primary nominative votes in certain precincts, was adjourned till Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Late Thursday afternoon subpoenas for election officials in Lapeer and Huron counties were issued and will be mailed to the sheriffs for service. In Lapeer county 22 precincts and in Huron 32 are involved. The subpoenas call for the presence of the custodian of the ballot boxes and also the keeper of the keys of the same, in some cases it being the same persons.

Considerable time was taken discussing the right of the board to go behind the returns on the subject of when additional petitions for recount may be filed and how long the board may sit in the recount. All of these questions were left open and will be argued by counsel for both Gov. Warner and Dr. Bradley when the board next meets.

Attorney Charles Nichols, acting for Bradley, made an effort to have the subpoenas also call for the enrollment book but the board refused to grant his request at this time.

Council To Be Kept Posted.

Resolved:—That the treasurer be ordered to give to the Common Council at the first regular meeting of every month, a report of the amounts received and credited by him to each fund, and on what account received, and the amounts paid out by him from each fund during the preceding month, and the amount of money remaining in each fund on the day of his report.

Such is the exact text of a resolution offered at the common council at Wednesday's session by Alderman Stephan and it immediately won the favorable endorsement of the whole assembly. The resolution was adopted and ordered in force.

"It is no more than right that the council should be kept posted on the condition of the city's funds," said Ald. Stephan. It then would enable us to keep close tab on all expenditures and prevent anything which would savor of extravagance. We have made sufficient appropriations for all funds and provided for the payment of $9,000 on our indebtedness. Nevertheless, it would be an easy matter to exceed these various provisions and in the end discover ourselves in the same fix as we did this year. A thorough report of all expenditures and balances on hand would obviate any such difficulty," said Mr. Stephan.

It Can't Be Beat.

The best of all teachers is experience, C. M. Harden of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back and all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at Walsh's Drug Co.'s drug store, 50c.

Best the World Affords.

"It gives me unbounded pleasure to recommend Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says J. W. Jenkins of Chapel Hill, N. C. "I am convinced it's the best salve the world affords. It cured a felon on my thumb, and it never fails to heal every sore, burn or wound to which it is applied. Drug Co.'s, drug store."

The Allegan Type of Sportsmanship

The Holland fans are justly disgusted over what they call the Allegan type of sportsmanship. On Saturday August 22 the Independent base ball team played the Allegan Tigers on the local diamond. The visitors received the same courteous treatment that the Holland boys are in the habit of giving to every team. At the end of the seventh inning the score stood 9 to 2 in Holland's favor. The Allegan players, in order to catch their train, asked that those seven innings should constitute the game, and the favor was granted without a murmur.

On Labor Day Holland went to Allegan to play a return game. The team was tired out by a game with the Interurbans in the morning, and went into the game in true sportsmanlike fashion, in spite of the fact that they had had no time to eat dinner. At the end of the seventh inning the score stood 6 to 0 in Allegan's favor. The game was lost for Holland and in order to catch their train they asked that the game should be called. But Allegan refused flatly. They insinuated that they would not pay the Holland team's expenses if they did not play the remaining two innings. As a result the Holland team came so near missing their train that they had to change their clothes on the train.

So far, so good. But now comes "the most unkindest cut of all." Each team had one game to its credit and Manager Michmershuizen has been trying to arrange for a "rubber" but in vain. Saturday naturally is the only day of the week that the Holland players are at leisure to play ball. But Allegan refuses to play on Saturday, on the meaningless plea that they do not play Saturday ball. Refusal to play Sunday ball is common enough, but the Allegan team certainly shows amazing originality in its refusal to play Saturday ball even after having played one Saturday game here. Furthermore they cast a reflection on the honor of the Holland team. Manager Michmershuizen offered to pay Allegan's expenses and as a further inducement offered that the winner should receive 60 per cent and the loser 40 per cent of the gate receipts. But this offer had no charms for the manager of the Allegan team and he even insinuated that it was not a bone fide offer but that the Holland team, since it took in the gate receipts might juggle the returns. This naturally is too contemptible for comment.

In foot ball the same Allegan type of sportsmanship seems to obtain. The Holland High school boys claim that they were unjustly discriminated against by the Allegan referees in the first game of the season last Saturday and so lost out. Such treatment reminds us of Holland's semi-professional base ball days, when it was almost impossible to win a game on the Allegan diamond, in spite of the fact that Allegan's team in skill and strength could not begin to compare with Holland. The Holland boys are so disgusted with the non-sportsmanship of the Allegan team that they claim the Chicago White Sox would get beat if they played at Allegan. When base ball is prostituted by such practices it ceases to be a sport; and it is perhaps just as well that Holland cannot play the rubber with such a team because it is not in Holland's class.

Mr. Taft at Fifty-one.

The modest celebration by William Taft, September 15, of the fifty-first anniversary of his birth is an event which appeals with special force to the young voters of the United States whose ballots are destined to be one of the determining influences in the November elections. The experiences through which the nation has passed in the last twelve years have greatly enlarged the American spirit of nationalism. They have developed conditions which stimulate the national imagination, disclose new ideals of national responsibility and impose new obligations upon American conscience and statesmanship.

The twelve-year period under review began with a desperate assault upon the national credit under the pretense of monetary reform. That wicked conspiracy was defeated, only to be followed two years later by a foreign war, in which the national honor was vindicated by the valor of American arms. From that conflict arose new problems which have placed the United States in the first rank of world powers and compelled the government to assume vast responsibilities, territorial, racial and administrative, in regions remote from our continental boundaries. The front of the world has undergone a change, and the international status of the United States has changed with it.

The vexatious questions which have arisen at home and abroad during these twelve years have served as supreme tests of the vitality of American institutions and of the integrity of Republican statesmanship. Those tests have been completely met in every instance. American prestige among the nations of the earth is greater and American credit is higher than ever before. The Republican party has been in control throughout this whole period of American development. It has kept the faith. It has proved equal to every emergency and its policies stand approved by the national conscience.

Among the leaders and exponents of the new Americanism which has won for the Republic an enlarged place in the confidence and esteem of mankind none has borne a more enviable part than Mr. Taft. The duties imposed upon him have been varied and exacting in equal degrees, requiring the calm judgment of the jurist, the tact of the diplomat, the alertness of an expert executive and the creative genius of the constructive statesman. Combining those qualities in higher degree than any of his contemporaries, Mr. Taft has placed before the young men of America an example of devoted, brilliant and useful service in varied fields of endeavor unsurpassed in the history of our times.

The example of Mr. Taft is an appeal to the national pride and the national imagination. It represents the forces which produce results and command respect. It inspires hope, wins confidence and stands for honor and progress. Moreover, it discloses those attributes of integrity, courage, self-respect and justice which the upright young American casting his first vote will naturally demand as essential qualities of his ideal candidate for President.

At the age of fifty-one Mr. Taft has standing to his credit a record of definite results which distinguishes him as one of the most accomplished of American statesmen, living or dead. It is without an error or a flaw, an epitome of the new Americanism which believes in doing things. And in behalf of the man who made it the record gives a distinct affirmative of the historic test for candidates for official favor: "Is he honest, is he capable, is he faithful to the Constitution?"

In Main the Republicans elected the entire state ticket, all the congressmen and the Legislature. The Democrats "made gains," except in the offices. Many Democrats feel that this sort of progress leaves an aching void.

Peaches are said to have been injured as the result of too much smoking—Better put them in a glass case.

The great drawback to domestic felicity often lies in the fact that we get too familiar with one another. There should be a certain reserve in the most intimate relationship. Members of the same family have no right to burst into one another's rooms without knocking. Wives have no more right to search their husband's pockets than they have to do the same little service for a distant acquaintance. You have no more right to rob the baby's bank, than to force the vaults of the national treasury.

Gov. Hughes expresses the idea that Bryan would cease to be great in politics the moment he ceased to be repudiated. Mr. Bryan may accordingly count on continued greatness, such as it is.

Mr. Bryan says his wealth amounts to $150,000. A few months ago he stated that his annual income was about $75,000. A 50 percent dividend speaks well for Republican good times.

No doubt, Mark Twain's idea in putting that notice on his front door is that the burglars, reading it, will break into hysterical and uncontrollable laughter and be quite insensible by the time the family are aroused.

For a man with a political skeleton in a specially built closet, Senator Foraker has been courageously clamorous for candor up to this time.

The aeroplane men, like other mortals, are learning the truth of the old proverb that the road to the stars is through adversity.

The Democratic appeal to farmers for $100 bills can best be symbolized by a frosted pumpkin unaccompanied by a shock of fodder.

Once in a while it comes with a great shock to a girl to find out that a man never notices the difference between a 49-cent shirtwaist and one that cost $28.85.

WHAT YOU SAW IN THIS PAPER 35 Years ago To-day.

Hope College opens for instruction next week. The list of students will be fully as large as last year, with a probability that it will be increased. We have not learned of any change in the faculty.

We call the attention of our readers to the new advertisement of W. Vorst. He has moved his shop to the large and commodious room under the Grandwet office, where he may be found ready and willing to give a fit for any article in the line of clothing you may desire, at prices to suit the times.

Although we have not received a list of premiums awarded by the State Pomological society at Grand Rapids, we noticed that Hon. John Roost of this city was awarded the first premium for late Crawford peaches; Grand Traverse, first premium for "Coolidge Favorite," and South Haven Pomological Society for a large number of varieties.

WHAT YOU SAW 30 YEARS AGO

Another one of those dangerous operations was performed, as several times before, on Rev. R. Pieters, of this city, on Tuesday last, by Dr. De Camp of Grand Rapids. The wonderfully strong constitution of Rev. Pieters and his recuperative powers have hitherto carried him through, and he is again recovering fast at last accounts.

Clouds, in heavy weather, are seldom above half a mile high, but in clear weather from two to five miles, and they can rise from five to seven. Clouds are often of enormous size, ten miles each way and two thick, containing 200 miles of vapor.

To show our readers how politics are working in this county we can mention as an instance of sharp watch over each other: (As we are told—verbatim) "That our prosecuting attorney, Geo. W. McBride, advertised a political 'discussion,' evidently named that way to draw a large audience, to be held at Olive, on Tuesday eve. 24th inst. Everything worked like a charm, but the Greenbackers had notified their friends, and behold when 'Mac' entered the building, who should walk in right after him but the redoubtable Stephen A. Lowing, claiming a share of the discussion.

And thus they had an actual discussion, in the place of a speech.

WHAT YOU SAW 25 YEARS AGO

At the late meeting of the Macatawa Park association, the park hotel was leased to Mr. Dan Bertsch of this city.

Last Tuesday morning at about 3 o'clock the house of John Dykema, on Thirteenth street, was discovered to be on fire by his neighbor, Jan Prakken. An alarm was given and our fire department was on hand in as short a time as possible. The Eagle engine took water at the well on the corner of Thirteenth and River streets and pumped it dry in a few minutes. The engines were then taken to tannery creek, a dam was made, and after some delay water was procured. But during this delay the house of Prakken took fire, and was rapidly being consumed. The fire had gained such headway that it was soon discovered that nothing could be done to save the property, and the firemen turned their attention to preventing the further spread of the flames, which fortunately was accomplished. Mr. Dykema's loss on house and contents is fully $2,000 and was insured for $1,400. Mr. Prakken's loss is $1,000 on house and probably $200 on the contents, with but a small insurance of $400. This fire is a reminder that our protection against a conflagration is totally inadequate, on account of water, and should give an impetus to our council in hurrying our water works along as fast as possible. Our fire department did nobly at this fire, and if the water supply had been sufficient, would have succeeded in saving one, if not both of the buildings. We are informed that it is the opinion of Mr. Prakken, who discovered the fire, that it must have been the work of an incendiary. Mr. Dykema and family were all fast asleep when the fire started and it was with difficulty that they escaped with their clothing. As there are no empty houses in the city the Prakken family will temporarily live in the fourth ward school.

At the regular tri monthly session of the Young Men's Republican club last Wednesday evening a large number of the members were present and the hall was well filled. It was decided to purchase fifty uniforms, costing two dollars each. The suit that was chosen is first class in every respect and when dressed in their new clothes will present a neat and handsome appearance. After the regular business was transacted the club was presented by Mr. L. Mulder with a streamer with the inscription printed on it: "For Congress, C. E. Belknap." It was accepted with thanks to the donor. A special meeting will be held next Wednesday evening and every Republican is requested to attend.

THE ELOCUTIONARY CONTEST

A novel entertainment was held at the Opera House on Friday evening, being an elocutionary contest for a silver medal. It had been prepared under the management of Mrs. A. V. Osborne of Holland township, who deserves great credit for the success of the contest. The Opera House was crowded with an audience of our best citizens and all present enjoyed the entertainment. The following program was presented:

Music.
Prayer.
"Anti Poverty," recitation—Miss Maggie Meuwse.
"The Deacon's Sunday School Sermon"—Oscar Wilms.
Singing, solo—Miss H. Hanson.
"Moral Suasion"—Miss Grace Jordan.
"Patriotic Prohibition"—Miss Ruth Harvey.
Singing, duet—Misses Jordan and Hanson.
"The Sparrows Must Go"—Miss Ida Jacobus.
"The Martyred Mother"—Miss Nellie Huntley.
Music, solo—Miss Grace Jordan.
"The Voice of the Dram Shop"—Miss H. Hanson.
"A Black eye for Lager Beer"—Master Percy Os' orie.
"Rum Selling, our Country's Scourge"—Miss Phurna Harvey.
Singing.

The committee which decided the contest were Prof. G. J. Kollen, Prof. G. P. Hummer and Mrs. J. C. Post. The medal was awarded to Miss Nellie Huntley. All the speakers performed their parts creditably and were well applauded. These entertainments are not only pleasing to the audience, but they afford good practice to the future orators and actors of the community. W. Jennings Demorest of New York City provides the medals for these contests.

Married at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter VanAnrooy, Filmore, by Rev. J. Keizer, on Saturday evening, Menardus G. Manting, editor of the Ottawa County Times, and Miss Minnie R. VanAnrooy. The happy couple took the late train for Chicago, returning on Wednesday. They will be at home after Sept. 25, at their new residence near the corner of Market and Seventh streets. The News extends hearty congratulations. May the happiness of many long years crown their mutual preferences!

Another sad death by drowning occurred in this city Sunday noon. Four young men, Chas. F. Shirts, Peter F. Oostema, Gerrit Klassen and Verd Colvin were out sailing in the basin at the head of Black Lake when a gust of wind struck them, capsizing the boat. The first three managed by swimming and by holding on to the boat to remain above water until others came to their relief. Colvin however was less fortunate. He tried to reach the boat but when within two rods, threw up his hands and sank, not rising again.

Dr. Wetmore was called in Wednesday to attend Peter Dalman. He was kicked on the head by Johnnie Winters, while the two were playing ball. The latter claimed it was accidental.

B. Sketee had a narrow escape one day this week. Returning home in the evening with a horse and buggy on the Drenthe road, at the bend in the river, the buggy got tangled in a loose barbed wire, which frightened the horse, causing him to back down the embankment.

The slot machines must go. So says Mayor Mokma and Marshal Dykhuis.

Anxious passenger—"I say, Mr. Man, is the next boat going up or down?"

Dock Loufer—"Well, you see, she's a leaky old tub, so I shouldn't wonder if at any time she was going down. Then again, her bilers ain't none too good, so at any time she might go up."

A letter from Dr. E. Hofman of Grand Haven, who is a member of the Wellman polar expedition, addressed to his brother in Grand Rapids, shows that on August 3rd they were in Franz Joseph Land, and had established their station at Cape Tezethoff. He had shot his first polar bear. The party visited the house where Prof. Andree's supplies are stored and found them in good condition and apparently had not been disturbed since they were first placed there by the aeronaut.

Mrs. J. Ryder and son George and Nick Whelan have resumed their former positions at the New City Hotel and the management will be again under their personal supervision. The season at Macatawa Park, especially the hotel, has been very satisfactory all around.

Sarah Bromwell, a Chicago clairvoyant, who went into a trance last summer and located the steamer Chicora, is in St. Joseph and has engaged the services of an attorney. She will sue the Graham & Morton company for the $10,000 reward in case anyone finds the Chicora. Her claim is that Capt. Lapier and the others will look for it just at the spot she designated.

Waffle Still at Large.

James C. Waffle, aged 38, shot and wounded, perhaps fatally, his sister, Mrs. Newell Gilmore, aged 46, and his aged father, Charles Waffle, aged 82, at the home of his sister, 160 East 7th street, Saturday evening. Waffle, immediately after the shooting, ran from the house and no trace of him has since been found although the police all over the country have been furnished with a description and are on the lookout for him. Mrs. Gilmore lies at her home in a critical condition and it is doubtful if she will recover. The father, although less severely injured, is recovering but slowly from the shock.

Waffle, who has not lived here for some time, came home from Detroit early Saturday evening and took supper with the family. He appeared to be acting queerly and his sister noticing this, asked him why he did not act more like his old self.

This seemed to anger Waffle who jumped immediately to his feet and fired two bullets at his sister. One took effect, piercing the kidneys and spine and lodging in the abdominal cavity. She fell to the floor. The crazed man then turned the revolver upon his father. The bullet struck the old man in the breast and glancing off the breast bone inflicted a dangerous but not necessarily fatal wound. As the old man fell, Waffle turned the gun upon his brother-in-law Newell Gilmore who fled from the house, with the would-be murderer in hot pursuit.

Passing upon the street frightened Waffle from his purpose and he fled through the railroad yards to the east end of the city. His brother Fred, who lives with his parents and sister, started after him as fast as he could run but Waffle reaching the railroad yard's first hid among the box cars. Fred picked up the revolver and on his return was placed under arrest by the police but after telling his story was released. The time consumed in the arrest and release of Fred was precious and gave Waffle ample time to escape.

Dr. Maubs was immediately called to the house where Mrs. Gilmore had been placed on a bed by neighbors. At first he held out little chance for the injured woman's recovery, but she has shown remarkable vitality and the chances are now equal for life and death altho it is feared that if she does live she will be hopelessly crippled.

James C. Waffle, the fugitive, is described as a slim man, about 38 years old, with light hair and a gold tooth in the front of his mouth. His height is about 5 ft. 6 in., and he weighs about 140 pounds. At the time of the attempted murder he wore dark clothes and a soft felt hat.

Many theories have been entertained by the police and others as to what has become of the fugitive. It was claimed by some that he was seen in Grand Rapids Saturday evening, but the belief held by many is that he is dead either in the swamp or at the bottom of the lake or river. The latest report comes from Lake Odessa, where it claimed a man answering Waffle's description has been making efforts to change clothes. Sheriff Woodbury is following up the clue and if Waffle is alive he cannot escape.

Price's Theatre

The Maude Henderson Company is the attraction at Price's Auditorium for all next week, opening their engagement with a stirring story of the Tennessee Hills, entitled "Over the Ridge." Mr. Prices has remodelled his rink, built a large stage and had special scenery painted which taken together with the special scenery carried by the company will give us full scenic production of each bill during the week. An entire change of play will be given each evening and the specialty artists are prepared to change their acts at each performance. Lacey's orchestra will furnish the music for the engagement playing many of the standard overtures, on Monday Rossini's "Italian's in Algiers" will give tone to the performance.

Seats are on sale Friday at Hardie's. Prices are 15, 25 and 35 cents.

Seminary Notes

The Western Theological Seminary resumed work last week Friday under favorable conditions and with bright prospects for a successful year. While the students were occupying pulpits at various places in the country the Seminary was the scene of great improvements. First of all a $700 steam heating plant has been installed. Then the entire building has been kalsomined. The library has been converted into a chapel and the library is now found in larger and more commodious apartments. This change was necessary as the number of books is gradually increasing so that larger quarters became a crying need. The entire library has been newly indexed according to the card system.

The student body is larger this year than for many years previous. The Senior class has undergone no changes in its number. The Middle class is stronger by two than last May. M. A. Stegeman, who last year studied at the New Brunswick seminary and John J. Vanden Schaaf who studied at the University of Chicago since last March, were accepted to pursue the studies of the Middle class and increased the membership of this class to seven. The Juniors also have this number so that the enrollment is 21, as the total of the three classes.

Monday evening, Sept. 28, Dr. Dubbink will deliver the opening lecture at Winants chapel. His subject is "The Relation between Philosophical and Christian Ethics."

Another treat is afforded the students and citizens in the form of lectures to be given by Dr. Bavink, professor at the Free University at Amsterdam. The dates and subjects will be announced later.

The Seminary will next Sunday be represented as follows: Z. Roetman, Harlem; A. Stegenga, S. Blendon, M. Van der Meer, North Blendon.

To Become An American Business-Man

Makoto Yama Moto, the son of Prince Ikeda of Japan, who has become a student of Hope College, has moved into his student sanctum at 69 East Ninth street and is buckling down to the work of acquiring an American education and becoming a good American citizen. He will enter the "D" class and have a private tutor besides for the first six months so that he can acquire greater proficiency in speaking English.

The young marquis, though belonging to one of the noblest families in Japan, his father being next in authority to the Mikado, is ambitious to become an American citizen. His father shares this desire and is not adverse to his training himself to become an American business man. He has started out on this worthy career by refusing to be shown any consideration beyond what any other student receives and is already known by the nickname, "Mac."

He is twenty years old and is bright and intelligent. An enthusiast in base ball in Japan, where he was short stop of the Nobles' team, he expects to take an active part in college athletics.

Moto Ohgimi, the Japanese minister, who accompanied the marquis to this country, graduated from Hope in 1879. The purpose in his coming to this country in addition to escorting his young friend is the interest influential friends here to the institution for the blind that he erected at Tokio some two years ago. Ohgimi is the guest of Dr. Kollen.

A New Mark Twainism.

Burglars entered the home of Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) the other night and had all the silverware, plated and solid, carefully packed to prevent scratching, preparatory to leaving when discovered. All evidence went to show they had not intended to disturb any of the household, but the clink of breaking glass awoke Miss Lyon, the author's secretary, and in the excitement that followed the silver was recovered, the burglars caught and the sheriff received a souvenir in the way of a bullet in his leg.

The next morning this sign appeared on Mark Twain's front door: NOTICE!

To the Next Burglars—There is nothing but plated ware in this house now and henceforth. You will find it in that brass thing in the dining room over in the corner by the basket of kittens. If you want the basket put the kittens in the brass thing. Do not make a noise—it disturbs the family. You will find rubbers in the front hall by that thing which has the umbrellas in it, chiffonier, I think they call it, or pergo-la, or something like that. Please close the door.

Yours truly,
S. L. CLEMENS

Free Attractions at Holland

N. J. Whelan, secretary of the Holland Fair has arranged for several special attractions which will be pulled off before the Grand Stand on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of Fair week.

Two of the most important of this series of stunts will be the antics of the LaCraux Brothers and the Armstrong Co. The LaCraux Bros., are acrobatic contortionists and comedians. They will combine the performance of hair raising acts in the line of work that requires wonderful agility and alertness, with side splitting stunts which will beat the attempts of the everyday circus clown to a whisper.

The Armstrong Co., is composed of tight rope walkers and trapeze performers. It is one of the best attractions of its kind the Holland Fair association has ever offered. And it is all free to the man, woman or child who attends the fair Sept. 29 and 30 and October 1 and 2.

Grand Trunk Buys Manistique

The Grand Trunk has purchased the monster ferry Manistique to operate on the Grand Haven and Milwaukee route as a siser ship to their present big ship, Grand Haven. The name of the Manistique will be changed to the Milwaukee in honor of its new home port. The purchase was made Saturday in the interests of the Grand Trunk-Milwaukee Car ferry Company, a corporation of which C. M. Hayes of Montreal is president, R. G. Butler of Milwaukee is general manager and G. W. Alexander of Detroit is secretary-treasury. These gentlemen with A. B. Atwater of Detroit and E. H. Bottom of Milwaukee form the board of directors.

The Manistique was built in Cleveland in 1903 for the Manistique and Northern Railroad and was operated by that company for several years between Manistique and Ludington and other east shore ports. The big steamer was for a time leased by the Pere Marquette and has been operated by several companies. Her late owners were the Cleveland Cliff company, which took over the railroad but did not need the ferry. In this manner the fine steamer which cost $412,000 to build five years ago becomes the property of the Grand Trunk Milwaukee Car ferry Co., for a consideration of about $300,000.

The new ferry is at present at Northport, Mich., and will be delivered to Milwaukee within a short time. The steamer has always been admirably kept up and will not require a great deal of fitting out. She will probably take her place on the route about Oct.

THE MIGHTY POWER OF MI-O-NA

Mi-o-na, that extraordinary and perfect stomach tonic, will relieve dyspepsia in twenty four hours.

It will cure, and is guaranteed by Walsh Drug Co., to the readers of the Holland City News to cure the most pitiful cases of dyspepsia, if taken according to directions.

Mi-o-na tablets not only cure dyspepsia, but all stomach disturbances such as vomiting of pregnancy, sea or car sickness, and the stomach sickness after excessive indulgence.

Mi-o-na cures by strengthening and invigorating the flabby stomach walls, and after a course of Mi-o-na treatment, constipation, if there is any, will entirely disappear.

Read this from the president of a New York corporation.

"I have been a terrible sufferer from dyspepsia and gastritis for two years. The most eminent physicians prescribed for me with no effect. I have been absolutely cured by your Mi-o-na tablets. The first one gave me a relief almost incredible."—Herbert H. Taylor, 501 West 143 street, New York City.

Mi-o-na is a most economical treatment—a large box of tablets only costs 50 cents at Walsh Drug Co., and the dyspeptic, nervous or otherwise, who does not give them a trial, is losing an opportunity to regain health.

This evening at 7:30 the marriage will take place of Miss Cornelia Steketee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Steketee and John Luidens. The ceremony will take place at the home of the bride's parents, 51 East 12th street, the Rev. Philip Meengs officiating, assisted by Rev. John Steketee. Miss Susanna Wieland of Grand Rapids will attend the bride and Anthony Luidens, brother of the groom, will be best man. The young people are well known in this city and enjoy the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Last evening Miss Minnie DeKam and James Schoon were united in marriage at their future home, 82 East 14th street. Rev. A. Keizer of the Ninth street Christian Reformed church performed the ceremony. This evening a reception will be held at the home of the young people, at which a large number of friends will be present to tender congratulations and enjoy a social time.

Powers' Theater

"Three Twins," a farcical musical comedy will be the attraction at Powers next Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday matinee. The fun hinges on a question of identity. One Tom Stanlow is madly in love with a young girl not agreeable to his father. His father orders him away from home. He does not wish to leave the girl nor offend the old gentleman, so he hits upon the happy expedient of disguising himself and remaining at home with both the father and the girl. He finds a photograph upon the beach and makes himself up to resemble. The original of the photograph of course, comes upon the scene and and also the original's twin brother, hence the title, "Three Twins." All three men have a heart's dearest and the mixup the women get into, claiming the wrong men, is what constitutes the mirth of the performance.

Commits Suicide

Mr. Mason of Fennville, aged 30 years, committed suicide Wednesday. He had been married, but had separated from his wife, who is again married.

Neighbors had heard him make remarks that indicated his intention of committing suicide. Going home Wednesday he was seen to take a white powder and died soon after reaching home. A post mortem examination was held Thursday and the inflamed condition of the organs indicated arsenical poisoning.

The ladies of Grace church will hold a rummage sale during the month of Oct. at 147 N. River St. Donations of serviceable winter clothing and useful household articles will be thankfully received.

Quick Work.

[Original.]

A number of detectives were lounging at headquarters awaiting assignments and swapping stories. All but one had told of some puzzling case that he had solved, and he was called upon to help the party pass the time.

"Come, Billy," said one of the number, "don't sit there mum when we're giving experiences. Tell us the most difficult case you ever tackled."

"You've all been giving that kind of cases. Suppose to vary the entertainment I give you the easiest case I ever tackled and you fellows guess how I solved it?"

"That's a good idea. Proceed."

"It was a case of identification, not one to discover a criminal, though I solved that, too, afterward. When I was on the secret service force of the town of Yardley a telephone came from a farmhouse a dozen miles in the country that the dead body of a man had been discovered lying beside a road, stripped and mutilated as to be unrecognizable. They wanted a police force sent out to attend to the matter. The captain told me to take the patrol wagon and a man or two and drive out to the place where the body lay. He charged me especially to find out the name of the murdered man, since it is bothersome for the police to keep a body and it's bad policy to bury it without identification.

"We drove out to the farmhouse from which the telephone was sent, where I found Farmer Bowers, who led me half a mile down the road and showed me the body. Whoever had done the job had taken great precaution to conceal the identity of his victim. Why he did so afterward gave me a clue by which I brought him to the gallows. The outer clothing had been taken off the body, and there was not a mark anywhere on his undergarments. A small bit of material had been cut out at the bottom of the shirtbosom, where shirtmakers usually place the owner's initials. The shoes probably bore the maker's name, for they had been taken away. As to the face, it had been mutilated beyond recognition. I looked for some defect on the body, like a mole or a birthmark, but there was nothing of the kind. No dog whined beside his murdered master. Indeed, there was no living thing about him, except the occupants of a dovecot on a barn near by and a cat in the road watching them.

"I confess I was puzzled. The only way I could see to find out who the man was was to take the body to the police station, publish the facts and wait for claimants. But this was not what the chief wanted. So I did a hard job of taking in surroundings and in fifteen minutes hit on an expedient. Two hours and thirty minutes after I arrived on the ground I had brought the murdered man's son from a distance of fifty miles to his father's body, which he identified at once beyond the slightest doubt. Now, how did I do it?"

There was a long silence, broken at last by one of the party, who claimed that some missing article, like a handkerchief with a name or initials on it or a paper tossed about by the wind, had been found. But the story teller averred there was no such article of any kind whatever. Then one man guessed that the cat mentioned belonged to the dead man and had his name and address on the collar. The reply to this was that the cat belonged on the farm where the barn stood. Then there was a guess that the man's son knew where his father was and came of his own accord. This would not do, for Billy had sent him a message to come and where to come to. One superstitious detective guessed that the murdered man's ghost gave the necessary information, and another suggested that it was a case of mental telegraphy. Finally every man gave up the conundrum and asked for the solution. The story teller resumed:

"Among the doves in the cot," he said, "I saw several of a different breed entirely from the rest. They were fraternizing with the others going and coming to and from the cot but not at all like them. The reason why I noticed these apparent strangers was because I have always had pigeons on my barn at home, and I had never seen this variety before. I had seen pictures of them, but I couldn't remember the breed.

"While I was thinking a boy came up to the crowd carrying a wicker basket with a cover. He said he had found it a short distance up the road. I couldn't see any connection between it and the murdered man unless possibly he had been carrying something in it. Why it occurred to me I don't know, but I connected it with the pigeons.

"Suddenly I recollected. They were carrier pigeons. It's wonderful how rapidly sometimes one idea will lead to another. Suppose these interlopers had belonged to the murdered man? Without waiting to think about the improbability of such a contingency I went to the barn, climbed to the dovecot, caught a carrier pigeon, wrote on one of my cards, 'Come at once to Bowers farm, one mile east of Gerrettsville,' tied it to the pigeon's leg, carried him away from the barn and let him go.

"That pigeon must have flown with incredible swiftness. He was received by the family of the murdered man who owned him and who was when killed taking his birds out on a trial trip. Fearing something had happened, the oldest son was commissioned to answer the summons. An express train left just in time for him to catch it, making but one or two stops before reaching Gerrettsville."

A Man of Nerve.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

On the P. and O. steamer Bonny Castle, bound for Calcutta, we had Lord Monson, lord high commissioner for British Burma.

He had little baggage. He was accompanied by only two servants instead of by ten or twelve. He didn't put on the pompousness and the "side" expected of him. Instead of the icy reserve looked for and expected he showed an inclination to mingle with the other passengers. For this some praised and some criticised him.

We found Lord Monson dignified, but at the same time pleasant. It proved to be easy to obtain an introduction to him, and he was by no means a cad or a snob. Among the lesser magnates were an Indian judge, a civil service commissioner and several military officers, but they were given but very little more attention by my lord than the ordinary passengers. There was much chagrin over this fact, but it had to be endured. Taken altogether, we were a pretty jolly lot, and we became quite proud of the fact that we had a live lord among us, and it would have been one of the pleasantest of voyages but for what I am now about to relate.

On all long voyages by steamer the first class passengers are supposed to hand over their money and jewelry to the care of the purser. A few men who are carrying large amounts of cash do this, and a few ladies may put a portion of their diamonds in security, but it is a rule observed more in the breach than the observance. The men feel safe in retaining at least a few hundred dollars each, and the women must keep out enough jewelry to make an appearance at the dinner table.

As soon as the second day out we had a robbery on board. A passenger who had a stateroom to himself was robbed by some one who entered it. The robber got $400 in cash and about a thousand dollars' worth of diamonds. The loss was at once reported to the captain, but as there was not the slightest clue to the perpetrator nothing could be done about it except to advise the victim to keep quiet and wait and watch. This was done, and the robbery was known to only two or three persons for a day. Then came a second.

During the dinner hour a second stateroom was robbed. This was occupied by two men who sat side by side at the table and who had been warm friends long before embarking. While this robbery, which yielded over a thousand dollars, was pretty well hushed up, the captain took steps to try to find out the guilty party. It was laid to some of the servants of the ship, just as it would have been laid to some of the servants of a house ashore. There were 150 of us, and yet the captain went on the principle that we must all be honest because we were aboard of his craft.

Nothing is more uncomfortable among a large number of passengers than a mystery of this kind. They know that a thief is among them, and each one feels that he has a right to suspect another. It was reported that my lord was very much perturbed; that he said this and said that; that he was doing his best to help the captain solve the mystery. Meanwhile two more staterooms were robbed. The trick was done while their occupants were on deck in the afternoon looking at a wreck. We now became one of the earliest, suspicious and most uncomfortable lot of people ever housed in together.

So far as I was individually concerned, I solved the mystery next day after the double robbery. I was sitting in the music room when a young lady came in with a package in her hand which she was going to give the purser. It contained money and jewelry. As she was about to pass the piano she stopped and sat down to play and sing. I was some distance away, but I saw her lay the package on top of the instrument. After a moment my lord came in and stood at her side a moment to compliment her. During this interval I saw him pocket the package. There were eleven other passengers in the room, but if any one else saw what I did he kept silent for the same reason.

By and by the young lady left the piano, looked for her package and, finding it gone, ran back to her stateroom. Within ten minutes there was an outcry. In the midst of it it was suggested that each and every passenger go on deck and remain there until his baggage was searched. The captain vetoed this. To search the baggage of my lord, to say nothing of others, would cost him his place. There was just one more robbery, as mysterious as the others, before we reached Cape Town. There my lord left us and it was understood that it was because of the robberies. We had no more of them during the remainder of the voyage, and I believe that most of the passengers were prepared to hear two months later that the Lord Monson of the Bonny Castle was one of the slickest criminals in England and had played us off for a lot of fools and got safe away with his plunder. Had I hinted on shipboard that I had seen him take the package and believed that he was the thief the captain would have had me in double irons within ten minutes. The real Lord Monson was on a visit home at the time, and this man had had the nerve to assume his identity and boldly take a passage, and the trick worked to perfection. No doubt some of the robberies were committed by the two thieves who passed as his servants.

Will Be More Wheat.

Many farmers have seeded for wheat this fall and nearly all have increased their acreage. This was due to the fine crop harvested this season and better prices than last year. The local milling companies report the wheat the best raised in many years, none of it weighing less than 60 pounds to the bushel and most of it running 62 and some 65. The yield was the best per acre in many seasons. Climatic conditions were all favorable to the cereal. Wheat raisers have faith that next season will be favorable and hence the increase in acreage. The wheat yield this year is around 18,000,000 bushels, but there has been raised in this state over 30,000,000 bushels in past years. Growers state that with climatic conditions favorable Michigan is still a wheat state.

Farmers are also seeding for sod and much more clover is being sown this fall than a year ago because the price of mammoth millet is $4.00 a bushel lower, being now quoted at $8.00. Timothy will be liberally sown and that seed is much lower in price than last season. Farmers say it is most too dry for plowing, the ground being like an ash heap, and in breaking sod land it is difficult to turn a good furrow and lay the land flat.

To Gravel Bee Line Road.

Monday night was "Good Roads Night" with the members of the Merchants' association. It was the topic of live discussion and conversation from start to finish.

The "Beeline" report was the opening gun. This is the stretch of road from the Grand Haven bridge, northeast to the Waverly—North Holland road, which cuts off a mile and a half for farmers from North Holland.

Simon Bos was present and reported that approximately $500 would be necessary to cover this stretch with a coat of gravel. Already $450 of this amount has been solicited among the farmers and business men. The job will be let within a few days and the road-bed will be completed this fall.

The Merchants association will have charge of the money solicited and it will be placed in a separate fund.

A committee of two were appointed to act with Mr. Bos in superintending the letting of the job and to see that the work is done properly and the money paid over to the contractors. The committee consists of B. Van Raalte Jr., and Gerard Cook.

When this was settled then came the talk by Anthony Rosbach, who presented the scheme of the state roads system. He explained how the state of Michigan has within the past few years appropriated $320,000 for helping communities make good roads.

"Of this amount not one cent has been spent in Ottawa county though we have paid our share of taxes," said Mr. Rosbach. "Why? Simply because the people of Ottawa have not taken advantage of the provisions of the law. We can get the aid if we want it and efforts will be made to secure it."

A committee of five members with Jacob Lokker, as chairman is to look up the matter of petitions for a "good roads district." This committee is to consider the advisability of the matter and, if it deems the time right, to secure the signatures and present a petition to the Supervisors at their next meeting, asking for the setting aside of a good roads district in Ottawa county.

There is hardly any doubt but this committee will decide for it. Then the people of the district selected will decide the question at an election. At that time it is proposed to hold "good roads meetings" in every schoolhouse in the district. Said one merchant:

"Good roads are a necessity to a farming community as well as to a city situated within that community. It is time that Holland and vicinity were getting permanent improved, gravel roads, built in accordance with the specification of the state bureau. Good roads enhance the value of farm property immensely and add greatly to comfort and convenience."

The Flower Widow.

[Original.]

Alicia Sarles was troubled. What troubled her was her own secret and was not suspected by any one. In deed, it was not suspected at all that she was troubled. Why should she be? She owned the finest farm in the county, was a college graduate and comely. True she was an orphan, but as far back as she could remember she had always been an orphan. Her home was with an uncle and an aunt.

What troubled her was this: She had nearly passed what might be considered the best age for women to marry—she was twenty-seven—and was not married. Had it not been for her property she might have been married long ago. None of the young men of her acquaintance dared to aspire to the hand of the heiress, especially an heiress who was a college graduate. Nevertheless Alicia was a country girl and desired to remain a country girl. If she married she would marry a farmer.

On her return from college she did not think of marriage. She had resources within herself which were greatly broadened by her education. For a time she read books on the lines marked out for her in college and was satisfied. But one morning she awoke to the fact that she was drifting into perpetual spinsterhood. The prospect did not please her. In her childhood and youth she had been deprived of that affection which exists in families and was averse to passing the latter half of her life without husband and children. She thought over the backlogs of her acquaintance and after some deliberation settled on Silas Blakely, a young farmer with little on his farm except a mortgage. On him she resolved to bestow her hand.

She did not know that Blakely would care to marry her, though she rather thought he would. But, considering she was well to do and he was poor, she knew he would not have the assurance to propose to her. She must propose to him. How should she propose?

One evening Alicia saw Blakely coming up the road, driving the stock from pasture. Hurrying into the garden, she gathered a bouquet and said to it, "I take you beautiful flowers, with your pink and blue and crimson and white complexions, to be my wedded husband." Then, calling to her aunt, she told her to take them to the well and throw them in as soon as Blakely came opposite, making sure he saw her doing so. The aunt took the bouquet, went to the well and when the young farmer passed acted as she had been told.

"Why do you throw those beautiful flowers away?" called Silas.

"They are my husband," said Alicia from the porch. "I'm a widow."

"What do you mean by that?"

"Have you ever heard of the proverb 'Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise?'"

"Yes."

"Well, if you wish to know the meaning of my being married to the flowers, go to your books, and if you hunt patiently you will find out."

With this she went into the house.

Blakely hurried on to overtake the stock which had passed during the brief dialogue, but he knew not of horses or cows; the strange episode had got into his head, and he was filled with wonder as to what it meant. While Alicia had been telling him that she was a widow she had looked upon him kindly, and her voice, which was sweet, still sounded pleasantly in his ears.

Now, Silas Blakely was no fool. His education was good for a countryman, but he neither had the books nor the inclination to hunt through them for any interpretation of such an insane proceeding. One of his schoolmates, however, had gone to college and had become a professor. To him Blakely wrote an account of the episode, asking for an interpretation.

Alicia possibly wished to test Silas' common sense. To hunt for the explanation himself would have been like looking for a needle in a haystack and while doing so his farm would have been sold out under the hammer.

It was a long while before he received the interpretation to the conundrum, but when it came he opened his eyes and his heart started up at a gait of a hundred beats to the minute. The same evening, getting off his farm clothes and into a very respectable outfit, in which, by the way, he looked very well, he went to call on Alicia.

"I have come," he said, "to offer all I have—that is, my farm with a mortgage on it—for the flower widow."

"And how," she asked, blushing and smiling, "did you learn what is meant by a flower widow?"

Blakely told her of his application and showed her the reply, which was as follows:

In India a man often remains unmarried longer than he would desire simply because he cannot afford to pay the sum the father of a desirable daughter demands of his would-be son-in-law. Widows, however, are cheap, and a wily father who finds his daughter is getting on in years while suitors tarry takes advantage of this fact. He marries his girl to a bunch of flowers, which he then throws into a well. Thus the lady becomes technically a widow, and as such she is a bargain in the marriage market. Thus the flower widow is secured as a wife by a suitor who would not have dared offer a small sum for her before her so-called marriage.

Alicia found in Silas Blakely the man she desired for a husband. He not only lifted the mortgage from his farm, but managed hers for her so that both prospered. Through her life Alicia was devoted to her husband and her children, and when the former died no flowers were thrown in the well. She remained a real widow.

Jacob N. Haan, proprietor of the Central Drug store, was arrested Saturday morning on a warrant charging failure to properly record purchases of liquor made in his store. Haan pleaded not guilty and his examination was set for some time this week. The alleged sale was not made by Mr. Haan but by a clerk. Mr. Haan claims that any failure to register the purchasers of liquor is an oversight and never intentional.

A committee of five has been appointed to report at the next meeting of the Merchants' association on the advisability of and plans for establishing a Farmer's Home in this city. The idea of the home has been carried out in Battle Creek and other cities with the greatest of success. It will be a place where the farmers can meet each other and their friends; where they can feel at home; where wives can wait for their husbands, while trading; where light refreshments are served; where the farmers and their friends can clean up after a dusty ride, and where they can warm up during the winter season and cool off in the hot weather. In fact such a place can be put to innumerable good uses.

Henry J. Dornbos of Grand Haven is attending the fourth International Fishery Congress to be held in Washington D. C. September 22 to September 26. Mr. Dornbos goes to the Congress with the credentials and honors of the representative of the State of Michigan, the commission having been given him by Gov. Fred M. Warner. The honor is an important one and the appointment is an acknowledgement of Mr. Dornbos' knowledge of the conditions in the Michigan fisheries.

The congress is the fourth that has been held. The first was in Paris, France in 1900. The next was in St. Petersburg in 1902. The third was held in Vienna, Austria in 1905. Representatives from every nation of importance will be present at the great Congress, which will convene in Washington next week as the guests of the United States Bureau of Fisheries. Dr. Herman C. Bumpus, director of the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, will be president of the congress and Dr. Hugh M. Smith, deputy commissioner United States Bureau of Fisheries of Washington D. C., will be secretary-general.

The new Literary Society met Monday evening in the Holland City News office and adopted, with slight changes, the constitution presented by the committee appointed for that purpose. The name of the society is to be the "Twentieth Century Limited." The young men adopted the name because the membership is limited to twenty and because they and the questions they discussed in their meetings are strictly up to date. The names of several of Holland's prominent young business men were mentioned as those desirous of getting a place on the roll of members. The meetings are attracting considerable attention among those of the city who are interested in this line of work and it will be only a short time before a full membership is secured. The following officers were elected to a term of three months: President, Tom Robinson; vice president, Arnold Mulder; secretary, Hans Olsen; a janitor was chosen by lot, Tom Robinson being the lucky unfortunate. The chair immediately appointed Arnold Mulder to the position of assistant janitor. A program for the next two weeks was given out. The first question to be debated will be "Shall We Restore the Saloon?" Wiersma and Michmershuizen will uphold the affirmative and Knutson and Hansen will champion the present condition.

Notes of Sport

Harvey Oltmans, who played a star half on the college eleven last fall has won a home for himself at the Central High school at Grand Rapids. Oltman's is stocky, full of ginger and fast on his feet, and will undoubtedly prove one of the biggest finds the Central High has discovered in years. His progress in a Grand Rapids uniform will be watched with interest by all Holland lovers of sport.

The High School boys, under the supervision of Coach Helmers went to Allegan Saturday to test the strength of the High School football team of that place. If the score is a criterion it would seem that the teams are pretty well matched but the local lads claim that a lack of good sportsmanship on the part of the Allegan referee, who had full charge of the game, is responsible for their defeat by a score of 6 to 0. The game was hard fought, Allegan's scores coming on a touch-back and goal from the field. The Holland boys kept the ball well in Allegan's territory and had it not been for alleged discriminations might have won. The teams will meet again on Oct. 3 and the locals expect to win without trouble. They are emphatic in their assurances that they will also win fairly and without cheating.

Whelan played a good game at Half and carried the ball in one run over twenty-five yards. Ed Van Ry played a fearless game at Full Back and was largely responsible for the low score. Deto was injured in the first half and taken from the game. He will be alright and ready for the next game when it is due. Lacey was also slightly injured in the back but finished the game to the end.

A "pick up" team from Holland was defeated at Fennville Saturday by a score of 7 to 5. Only seven Holland boys went down to the game. The batteries for the Hollands were pitcher, McCall; catcher, Frank Van Ry.

The Hamilton team, strengthened by a battery from Zeeland put up a scrappy game against the Holland Independents Saturday afternoon, but were defeated by a 2 to 0 score. The locals landed on Hendricks, the crack pitcher from Zeeland for a total of eight hits, four of them two sackers. Shaw secured two of these. Waldring who twirled for the locals was in rare form, allowing but two hits and striking out fourteen of the visitors. The Independents seem to be closing the season in fire-works style. A large crowd should be out to the Ceresota game Saturday.

Hope College is sending out some great football dope this year. The Holland College claims to have the brightest sort of prospects for the season on the gridiron and the students are already planning to make a clearing on some of the high school teams. Grand Haven high meets Hope college team rather early and the game will no doubt be a pretty warm one. Hope defeated the locals last year by a very narrow margin but the Grand Havenites will try not to allow them to repeat this year.—Grand Haven Tribune.

HAWKING MACHINES

Catarrh Sufferers are Nothing But Hawking, Spitting and Blowing Machines, Says an Authority.

It is possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform is being preached in the churches, schools and at public gatherings, that thousands of people will continue to suffer from catarrh, when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a pleasant, medicated antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure catarrh. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes and crusts in the nose, in a few days.

"I suffered from catarrh for two years; tried numerous remedies which failed; used one and one-half bottles of Hyomei and am entirely cured."—C. N. Lindsay, 407 East First Ave., Mitchell, S. D.

A complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, costs only 50 cents. Walsh's Drug Co. sells it and guarantees it to do exactly as advertised.

Hyomei also cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and infants Croup.
